This app does not collect or share any data. The Google Play Store, however, does collect data and shows this to me (the developer) in anonymized form. For instance, I can see the number of people who have downloaded this app in different countries and at different time intervals. I don't look at this data unless I'm really bored.